WIFE RETURNS TO KENTUCKY.

The Husband Goes to Live With Relatives Without Apprising Them of Disagreement.

A week ago, Mr. and Mrs. James Shepherd Cabanne, who have been living at No. 536 Cabanne avenue, sold their furniture. The next day Mrs. Cabanne departed for Paduenh, Ky., to visit her sister.

Mr. Cabanne went to the home of his aunt, Mrs. A. C. Carr, at No. 558 Cabanne avenue, to board. He told his aunt that wife would be out of the city for several days, that they had sold the furniture and that when she returned they intended to board. Yesterday in the Circuit Court Mrs. Cabanne brought suit for divorce.

Mr. Cabanne, who is popularly known a "Shep" Cabanne, and prominent in St Louis society for many years, is out of the city, and no one seems to know just where city and no one seems to know just where he is. Deputy Sheriffs were unable to get service on him vesterday.

"Shep" Cahanne is the son of Doctor James S. Cahanne one of the oldest practicing physicians in St. Louis. The relatives of the husband offer no explanation for the wife's action, and are at a loss to understand why she should sue for divorce. They say that Mr. Cahanne never intimated in the sightest way that he and his wife had disagreed.

married to "Shep" Cabanne five years ago.
The couple e.oped and there was some romance in their marriage. Mrs. Cabanne was then only 15 years old, and her husband was scarcely 21.

They have one child, a boy, 16 months old, who is now with his mother.

The petition filed in court yesterday was case.

Mrs. Cabanne has figured prominently in St. Louis society, as her sister, Sallie Leonard, who about three weeks ago, adopted the stage as a profession and joined James K. Hackett's company. Six months ago, Thomas Leonard, father of the girls, took a bride trany years younger than himself. The marriage was a quiet affair and Mr. Leonard's friends in Kentucky and St. Louis were surprised.

"When I heard that a divorce suit had been begun," said Mr. Carr, the young man's uncle, "I was shocked. I never dreamed of there being any discord between 'Shep' and his wife. Mrs. Cahanne visited us frequently, and they seemed devoted to each other. There is something in this case I cannot understand. I feel sure that Shep is not to blame."

HIS ACCOUNT OF CAREER. Several years ago, he claims, he left the service and went to South Africa as war correspondent for several London papers. He will not go deeply into his identity asserting that he will not disgrace his mother and sister. The latter, he says, is the wife of a Canadian official, and is well known in Washington, D. C. He stated that he has another name which, if added to F. Seymour Barrington, would immediately establish his identity throughout the world, Barrington holds that he is in communication with Barton, and if any attempt is made to hold him on a charge of bigamy he will produce the real Barton upon the witness stand. He says that Barton is now working at South Orange, N. J., overseeing a farm for a wealthy woman. He says that Barton is going under another name, trying to live down the past.

Since his incarceration Barrington has proved a model prisoner. Shortly after his arrival at the Workhouse the shackles were removed from his feet, as it was found that e was thoroughly docile.

During his incarceration Barrington has een compiling a book on his experiences in St. Louis, which he hopes to publish. It will be a chronicle of everything that happened to him, and much space, he says, is to be given to his experiences with newspaper men. Several St. Louis men, it is said, are to

The Reverend William H. Milburn, Preacher, Lecturer and Author, Dies at Santa Barbara, Cal.

Washington, April 10.-The Reverend William H. Milburn, the venerable blind Chap-lain of the United States Senate, died in Santa Barbara, Cal., to-day, Word to this effect was received here to-night by nel D. A. Ransdell, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate.

Mr. Milburn, accompanied by his two nicces, the Misses Timley, left Washington for the Pacific Const about a year ago. The chaplain was in broken health. The change brought no great improvement in his condition, and when Congress met in December he forwarded his resignation to Washington, but it was never acted on. The deceased was a native of Philadelphia, where he was born in 1823.

When he was 5 year old a playmate accidentally struck him in the left eye with a plece of glasa. For two years he was confined to a dark room under medical treat ment, and when he came out one of his eyes was entirely blind and little sight was left in the other. He, however, pursued his studies at school and college for about twenty years, the sight growing dimmer, until gradually he became totally
